Indiana Now Ready to Take Her High Perch on the Soldiers' Monument.

She Will Be the Highest Woman in the World -A Slight Error in Casting Is Corrected-The Effect

The erowning figure of the soldiers' and sailors' monument arrived yesterday from Chicago over the Lake Erie & Western line. It lies in a dismembered and prostrate condition upon two gondols cars in the railroad yard, between New Jersey and Alabama streets. As it is, it seems a monster, and there were repeated and excited exclamations of wonder from the large number of people who visited it in the yards. It is exposed to full view, being too enormously heavy for crates and so large that there is no danger of the vandal hand. Nevertheless the company has placed a guard to protect it while in its care, and the commission has appointed Otto Pfafflin to act as its representative on the ground.

The work of removing it to Monument Place will begin to-morrow, being in charge of a man from Terre Haute. He has the sontract, and, judging from the expressions among those who have viewed the statue, he has the sympathy of a large number who wonder how he will succeed in getting so monstrous a woman so high up in the air. When her Majesty "Indiana" rises to her everlasting perch upon the lofty column she will have the distinction of being the highest woman or statue in the world.

The statue is in six pieces, the head and trunk constituting one, the legs and feet another, the two arms and the sword being in three pieces, and the pedestal, in the shape of a globe, being the sixth. These are to be elevated to the position designed for the figure through the hollow shaft in the monument where the elevator is yet

The top of the figure will be 284 feet from The top of the figure will be 284 feet from the ground. It is twenty feet in height, and rests on a globe, which is eight feet in hight. The size may be estimated by the fact that the arm, which is about twelve or fifteen inches in thickness, is eight feet long. The sword is about twenty feet in length. The weight of the figure is sixteen thousand pounds. Its cost to cast was $12,000. It is at once the most ambitious work of the artist, George T. Brewster, and of the American bronze foundry which cast it. Until within a few years it was thought that bronze casting had to be thought that bronze casting had to be done in Europe. The figure is among the largest pieces ever cast in this country. There are several elements in its construcficulties, and the appearance of the figure at the hight selected, has yet to be known. The belief is that it has been properly proportioned, but there are no examples for reference. There are no other figures so large standing on columns so high.

A great deal of new calculation had to A great deal of new calculation had to be done to know what the wind pressure would be, and what the strength of the iron supports would have to be. The figure will greatly add to the oscillation of the monument, which, in spite of its rigidity, is about eight inches at the top.

The casting of the figure was accomplished without accident. The only error was in a misplacing of the point of the sword, which was corrected without much trouble. New machinery had to be imported from Europe for the work, and it is this which caused the delay in finishing it.

ported from Europe for the work, and it is this which caused the delay in finishing it.

This was not known by the commission for some time after, and was discovered by accident by President Langsdale. The figure typities Victory rising out of the ruins of war. The artist designed the figure from two women in Cleveland. Some of his work is now on exhibition at the world's fol Marcosson and His Company at Plymouth Church Tuesday Evening.

A concert of unusual attractive features will be given at Plymouth Church Tuesday evening. Mr. Sol Marcosson, a violin virtuoso and a favorite pupil and friend of the renowned Joachim, is the star performer. Mr. Marcosson was born in Louisville, but he has lived and studied in Europe for a number of years, and has given two concert tours and met with the greatest success. The accompanying notices are samples of what he received everywhere:

This young American, whose wonderful natural gifts have been fully developed in our high school for music, knows how to "handle his bow" in a way so dexterous that the strings seem to fairly ring with harmonies which reach the inermost recesses of all sensitive hearts.-Beh-

The violin virtuoso, Mr. Marcosson, who had once before played before our people, caused a lively anticipation of enjoyment. That he is the favorite pupil of the king of violinists, Mr. Joachim, we can easily believe. We can also credit the report that the master is very proud of his pupil, who, in all great and fine points, is himself already a master. When one watches the play of the bow, the elegant arm and hand movements, one must say Mr. Marcosson is a born violin virtuoso. With what delicacy and orn violin virtuoso. With what delicacy and certainty does the artist entice from his instriment those lovely and wonderful tones! His en-tire performance was delightful. - Berlin Journal.

Mr. Marcosson will be assisted by Miss May Johnson, of this city, and Signor Con-stantin Leber, also of Louisville. The programme for Tuesday evening is:

(a) "May Morning".....Roeckel zurka" Wieniawski Mr. Sol Marcosson.

"Greek Girl's Song".....Lynes

Miss Lemon's Success. Miss Marguerite (Datsy) Lemon made her appearance at the Press Club concert in

New York last Sunday night and has been lavishly complimented by the press. Miss Lemon's picture adorns the first page of the Press Club News of May 20, and underneath is "Miss Marguerite Lemon, dramatic cockerill's booth." The Sunday Advertiser says: "Miss Marguerite Lemon, the gifted dramatic soprano, is to sing. Miss Lemon is a very beautiful brunette, and is possessed of a voice of rare quality and wonderful range, and it will be a great treat to hear her. She sang at the concert given at Palmer's for the benefit of the Hancock monument fund with tremendous success. A great future is predicted for her by the musical authorities." The Morning Advertiser says: "But the treat of the evening was the singing of Miss Marguerite Lemon, the beauti-ful Southern girl. Miss Lemon has a voice of remarkable range and power, and her singing evoked loud applause and cries for her reappearance. The critics declared her voice to be one of wonderful sweetness. Miss Lemon sang an Italian song in re-Sponse to an encore."

The New York Record says: "A great success was that achieved by Miss Marguerite Lemon, the protego of Mrs. John A. Cockerill and a pupil of Mme. Murio-Celli. Miss Lemon is a dramatic soprano, with an ex- | dianapolis 6 a. m.

Mr. Donley's Recital. Mr. W. H. Donley gave his twelfth fortnightly organ recital yesterday afternoon at Plymouth Church before a large and appreciative audience. Mr. Donley was assisted by Miss Josephine Robinson, contraito. Miss Robinson has naturally a sweet, rich voice of smooth and sympathetic quality, and she has been studying with the best teachers in Cincinnati for the past two years, so that it has had superior cultivation. Miss Robinson sang "In Gentle Murmurs Will I Mourn" ("Jeptha"). by Handel, and her interpretation was chaste and beautiful. Mr. Donley, who is the and beautiful. Mr. Donley, who is the leading organist of the city, played to decided advantage in a programme of classical compositions. Several numbers were unusually fine and rarely heard, even in an organ recital. These included Wagner's "Prelude," "Lohengrin." Deshayes's "Toccata Op. 11." Petrali's "Fantasia Concertante" and Weber's "Jubilee Overture." Other numbers were Haydn's "Adagio" from the symphony in C. No. 7. Guilmant's "Nuptial March," Roeckel's "Air du Dauphin" and Wagner's "O Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star," from "Tannhauser."

A PROOF OF ASPHYXIATION.

Dr. Carl Barnes Makes a Statement in the Cases of Moses Smith and Son.

Dr. Carl Barnes makes the following reply to a recent paragraph relative to the bodies of Moses Smith and son, who died of asphyxiation, as it is supposed:

"Those who are versed in post mortem appearance know that bodies, after death from certain diseases, take on putrefactive changes very early after death. This is true in all those cases where the person has died of some of the adynamic fevers, or slow wasting diseases, such as typhoid, tuberculosis, etc. The bodies of persons who have met with sudden death seldom take on these putrefactive changes for several days. This is because of the natural healthy state of the body at the time, and it has been observed in those cases where death has resulted from poisoning from carbolic acid, or those whose death has been caused by lightning, that the bodies remain well preserved for a con-siderable time. At the time Moses Smith and his son met their death they were in a healthy or physiological state, consequently their bodies would not take on these putrefactive changes as quick as they would had they died from some fever or wasting disease. It is also a remarkable fact that the bodies of all those who meet their death by asphyxia remain in a good state of preservation for an indef-inite time. This is because of certain changes which take place in the blood at the time of death, which renders the blood in such a condition that it resists slow combustion and putrefaction.

From these causes and phenomena, it will be seen that on account of the bodies remaining in this state of preservation, it only adds another proof to the theory that Moses Smith and his son died of asphyxia."

Stephen Wilson, residing at No. 29 Elizabath street, was taken to the station house yesterday suffering from violent insanity. Wilson is fifty-six years old. He is an old soldier and was a member of the Onehundred-and-twenty-ninth Indiana Regiment. Two years ago his first wife and two children were killed in a railroad dismas divorced from him a short time ago.
It is supposed that his domestic troubles are responsible for his demented condition.

Yesterday morning it was stated that Holtzman's ambulance had been sent after the man, and the driver had refused to bring him to the city. UNDER NEW MORTGAGE LAW

Fannie B. Wilson Says She Paid W. I. Ripley, but He Refuses Her a Release.

She Now Wants Damages Besides the Release -Erwin Banks's Light Punishment for a Heinous Offense-Other Court Matters.

CLAIMS SHE PAID RIPLEY.

Damages Asked by Fannie B. Wilson Under the Provisions of a Recent Act. Fannie B. Wilson yesterday filed suit before Justice Daniels against W. I. Ripley. asking damages in the sum of $25 and the same amount for attorney's fees. The plaintiff charges that on the 18th day of February she was fined $1 and costs in the Criminal Court for assault and battery. The fine was stayed by Ripley, she giving him her note for $54.65, payable in ninety days, secured by chattel mortgage upon her household goods. She alleges that upon the 15th day of May she paid the amount in full and was given a receipt therefor. She demanded of Ripley that he release the chattel mortgage, but he refused to do so unless she paid him an additional $6.

The suit filed yesterday is under the provisions of an act passed by the last Legislature, providing that in the case of the refusal or neglect of a mortgagee to release the mortgage, after it had been satisfied, the mortgageor may sue for and recover $25 damages and attorney's fees.

Run the Gauntlet of the Courts. The Appellate Court yesterday handed down a decision in the case entitled Mary Dalton vs. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, et al., which came up from Clark county, where the plaintiff had recovered a judgment for $1,500 on a policy held in the insurance feature of the order. The case was once appealed to the Supreme Court and was there affirmed, but a new hearing was granted. In the mean-time the jurisdiction of the Appellate Court gated to it for settlement. The court, in an opinion reviewing only questions of law, again affirmed the judgment. Eugene V. Debs, the head of the order, and the officials who are custodians of the funds were made garnishee defendants.

Would Have Been Lynched in the South. Erwin Banks, a colored man, employed as janitor at the Wyandotte Block, was fined $25 and costs by 'Squire Habich yesterday afternoon for assault and battery upon the three-year-old daughter of Major and Lucy Edmonson, residing at No. 569 South West street. The at No. 569 South West street. The case was a very aggravated one and the fine imposed was the limit of the justice's jurisdiction. Banks enticed the little girl into an outhouse and took nameless liberties with her. On account of her age she was incompetent as a witness, and but for the clever work of Constable Hoimes in securing a confession from him it is probable that the villain would have escaped legal punishment. legal punishment.

Martin Found Guilty. William Martin was found guilty of assault and battery in the Criminal Court yesterday and released on commitment. Martin is a crippled man, both legs being off at the knee. He was accused of assault and battery with intent to kill his stepfather, William Penny. The latter, it appears, came to Martin's house with several companions under the influence of liquor, and in a tight which ensued, in which all participated, Penny was stabbed, and accused his stepson of the act. Martin said it was one of Penny's companions that did the work

Charged with Cruelty. Dora Hitchens, in a suit filed yesterday asking divorce from Robert Hitchens, charges him with drunkenness and cruelty. She alleges that May 19 he drove her from their home on Seventh street and chased her several blocks with a revolver. On the same evening she alleges that he knocked her down with a brick and choked her. The day following this assault she charges that he sold all their household furniture without he knowledge or consent. knowledge or consent.

Tenant Asks Damages. William F. Rupp, a North Pennsylvaniastreet merchant tailor, yesterday began suit in damages against Henry M. Talbott for $800. Rupp alleged that he occupied a room in the Martindale Block, owned by Talbott, and that on the 20th instant his room was flooded with water from a leakage in the water pipes in the rooms above his store. He alleges that the plumbing was old and unfit for use, and was known to be so by
